Scenario 1

User sees clothing article they like
User clicks on article of clothing

User sees an enlarged version of the clothing with different angles of it with different colors and styles they can select. There is a buy button as well
User selects through the different styles, then selects the buy button once they figure out what style of the clothing they want

User sees a screen showing the article of clothing and the style they want it in, as well as the price of their purchase. It also has a section to enter credit card info and a button to go through with the purchase.
The user checks that their order is correct, and then enters their credit card information once they double check the order.

Scenario 2

User sees the link to Youtube
User clicks on the link and enters youtube

User sees various rows of videos that are a mix of recommended and top trending, as well as a search bar.
User selects the search bar, types in 'underwater basket weaving' and hits enter.

User sees various videos titled or about underwater basket weaving
User Clicks on the video they want to watch

Scenario 3

User sees the mail app
User clicks on the mail app

User sees a sign in button and a create new account button
User clicks on the create new account button

User sees a field for naming the email address and creating a password. They also see the create account button
User types in what they want their new email to be and the password for it, and then clicks 'create account' to finalize it